WILLIMANTIC PASTOR

Thomas Logis, alias Jannie, 42, who on the way he met the badly battered claims he shot in self defense, was arrested Saturday night about midnight at Norwich Town by Constable took him along to the Stott house, when the stott house are stored with the store are stored. Timothy Fields, charged with shooting William Gitschier, who is in the Backus hospital with one bullet in the upper part of his chest on the left side and another wound through the upper part of his left arm. The injuries will not prove serious, it is believed.

Both men live in the Otrobando road section and the shooting happened during a fight on Otrobando road between 10.30 and 11 o'clock, in which the man who used the pistol claims that he was made the victim of an attack by Gitschler and Edward Laskowski, who, he says, came to his house to give him a beating. That he received a beating at somebody's hands is plain enough, for both eyes are black and his face is bruised and battered. The affray took place a short distance from the home of Logis, who is employed at the Glen woolen mills. His account of it that the fact that he is Polish and Gitschler is a German Both men live in the Otrobando road His account of it that the fact that he is Polish and Gitschier is a German had something to do with it, for he told Chief Linton that the Germans and the Poles fight and shoot like the devil. He claims that the two men who attacked him were giving him a bad beating and that his foot went into a hole so that he fell and they pounced on him and had him by the throat choking him when he pulled the revolver from his pocket and fired. The two bullets that Logis fired into Gitschier stopped the fight.

The first word that the authorities heard of it was when Constable Tim-

RIOUTOUS MEETING OVER HEALTH OFFICER'S SALARY.

Interrupt Speakers - Mayor Briugs Police to Platform-Salary Increase

(Special to The Bulletin.) New London, Nov. 21 .- The largest ity meeting ever held in New London, and the second to be beld in the evening, was that of Saturday in the ounty court house to act upon the orlinance proposed by the court of common council to increase the salary of the health officer from $1000, to $000 a year Some of the objectling councilmen six in number, and thirty other citizens signed a petition for this special city meeting and the mayor, under the charter was required to call the meeting. When Mayor Rogers rapped for order the big room was filled with fully 700 people, all standing and there were at least 300 more on the outside who were unable to get in, but many of the latter tired after awhile and went elsewhere, but those on the inside were packed in so tight they could not get out.

Alderman Charles C. Perkins, who engineered the opposition to the ordinance, offered the necessary motions to bring the matter before the meeting, remarking that the business was the approval or disapproval of the action of the council in the matter of the ordinance to increase the salary of the town health officer, hence it would not be germane to the issue to introduce personalties either for or against Dr. J. Torrington Black, health officer, as it was not the individual, but the salary that was to be considered. Former Governor and Former Mayor Thomas M. Waller, who in years that on council to increase the salary took him along to the Stott house, where as soon as he saw how badly Gitschler was shot he sent for the Backus hospital ambulance, which arrived soon after Dr. Cassidy had reached the house.

The constable learned that Edward Snow and Charles Keeler, two Norwich Town youths, had brought the wounded man to the Stott home. He took Logis into the house, where Gitwounded man to the Stott home. He took Logis into the house, where Gitschier identified him as the man who had fired the pistol.

Gitschier was taken in the ambulance to the hospital after he had been given temporary attention by Dr. Cassidy, while Logis was brought to police headquarters here and locked up for the night. At first he denied that he had done any shooting, but Sunday afternoon he confessed to Chief Linton that he was the man who fired the shots. the shots.

Constable Fields found a .38 calibre Hopkins & Allen revolver in Logis' room at his home on the Otrobando road. It had two empty shells in it, one loaded shell and the other chamber empty.

The constable learned that Logic and ber empty.

The constable learned that Logis and a man named Fyed Dowdall had been around together in the evening, and that Logis had come from the city on one of the late trolley trips. The youths named Keeler and Snow had been following along with them on the Otrobando road when the fight took place.

Former Governor and Former Mayor Thomas M. Waller, who in years that have gone controlled many city meetings immediately went to the platform and claimed the right to be heard before a ballot was taken on the masters that had been presented by heard before a ballot was taken on the question that had been presented by Alderman Perkins. Mr. Waller was recognized and made a speech of an hour's duration, during which he was interrupted many times by howls and jeers, and such exclamations as: "Give someone else a chance," "Shut up," "Tell something new," "Ring the bell," and so on. The former governor spoke earnestly in favor of increase in salary and of the efficiency of Dr. Black, and he had his full say despite the discourteous treatment he received from who was opposed to the ordinance took the floor, and he was given a respectful hearing, the only speaker of the evening who was given like treatment. Mr. Murray had given the subject much attention, having communicated with the mayors of the principal cities of the state as to the church of Willimantic, speaking at the state Christian Endeavor convention at New London on Saturday, saw in the terrible European conflict one bright side in the fact that it has heightened the spiritual life of the peoples who are at war. Mr. Rowley delivered the keynote address of the convention and had as his topic The New Emphasis of Spiritual Values.

His address was full of keen thought and originality and was listened to with great interest. He said that a direct result of the war has been the spiritual stimulus among the nations principal cities of the state as to the salaries paid to health officers, and he stated the amount paid in each instance compairing same with what was proposed to be paid to the New Lon-don health officer and demonstrated that his present salary of $1900 was un to the standard. When Mr. Murray had finished, Mayor Rogers recognized State Attorney Hadlai A. Hull, and introduced him as a state officer and that he should be given a hearing. There was shouting and jeering as he attempted to speak and the mayor rapped for order, and it came. Then the mayor shouted: "Policemen Wrest and Pinney come right up here near the platoform; I am the chief of police according to the charter, and I'm going to have order here. These policemen, and others, responded, and the mayor sent sheriffs and opportunity for great work rich.

The convention was scheduled to open in the First Congregational church auditorium at 10 o'clock, but delegates from the west were late in arriving, the trains being off schedule, constables to the outer edges of the crowd to preserve order. Major Huli spoke strongly in favor of the ap-proval of the action of the court of ouncil in the passage of an ordinar to facrease the salary of the health officer from $1000 to $3000 and warmly praised the efficiency of Dr. Black, as the health officer there being no bet-ter in all New England, he said.

There were cries loud and long for a vote and finally Mayor Rogers yielded and the balloting was commenced. Voting places had been placed at one end of the room, and the vote was by ballot and by wards and check list. two checkers and two tellers being appointed by the mayor for each ward. The ballot resulted in the defeat of the ordinance by a vote of a majority of 69 in a total vote of 763. The vote

WILL BE INVESTIGATED. in Bad Condition, Commissioner

Stadtmueller Learns,

Reports from inspectors to Dairy and Food Commissioner Frank H. Stadt-mueller indicate that many dairies of the state are in an unsanitary condi-The commissioner said that immediate steps to correct the bad con-ditions will be taken. The first notice is to be an order which must be obeyed without delay to avoid prosecution.

Much of the trouble, he said, is caused by a conflict between the state and local authorities, and in some towns of the state farms are examined by six authorities having as many differ-
